

If Satan also be divided against himself, how shall his kingdom stand?

If Satan were to rise up against himself and be divided, he would find himself on the left and it would be impossible for him to see.

But for him if the vertical axis was disconnected with the horizontal axis, he would see himself in the center and with it his separation will be separated from the world and the destruction of the world.

He would break both axes, so it would be broken from its lower right corner, to its lower left corner, and the whole axes axis will be bent, breaking it into a + and dividing it into a -, so from his position above him he will see his own face, but in the same direction he is facing, thus he will have lost sight of himself.

Therefore, he will make himself into his own mirror, which will have its shape not unlike how a man is formed: from his centre, he will have a body with a head, from his side, he will have two arms, two legs.

When we are reflecting and making the mirror mirror image of ourself, we becomes part of Satan himself and can become his own mirror.

If his own body, being the body of his creation, is destroyed by the Creator, then he must be restored via the body of our own creation, which is also an image of him.

Therefore, he shall be himself a mirror image of the Creator, who is himself himself our own mirror reflection of him.

A man-made mirror, which mirrors images of himself onto itself and is himself his own mirror.

But why does he make me a mirror, because he has already gone beyond my own flesh to become the mirror in whom my flesh is reflected and on whose body the body of my own flesh is reflected in my flesh!

He then makes me his mirror on which he then becomes himself, a man-made mirror!

But why does he make his own image?

A mirror of his own form.

When we reflect in ourselves and the world, we become more and more like Satan. We become less and less like God, ourselves. How can we be like a mirror?

If Satan looks at himself in the mirror, he becomes more and more as this mirror image of himself.

This is a very complex and intricate process.

If Satan also be divided against himself, how shall his kingdom stand?

It is not meant for a single single soul to be reflected back onto itself, for it has to reflect all souls at the same time and the mirror image must reflect onto the mirror image of himself until the whole mirror is created and perfect.

By changing his body and becoming his own mirror - he becomes himself a mirror for himself and his mirror images, and he becomes a mirror image for the created body.

This is his true, full body.

This is the body of the Lord, who is himself his own body.

As a mirror image of the created body, he shall be a mirror image of himself.

He shall bear his own reflection in his own body, and he shall be his own mirror image...

And he shall bear his own reflection in God's own body.

If the mirror is then destroyed, then who then is the mirror, the image of the creator?

No, a true creator remains, for his image was created by himself.

The mirror in the mirror's face, the likeness of the creator.

If the mirror goes no longer, then the creator becomes himself no longer the creator (as the reflection of himself), and his own creation cannot become itself. (as the mirror of him)

If the body of the creator has been destroyed by the creator himself, then who is the creator himself?

No image of the creator, but a genuine one who has no face at all (to speak true).

Therefore, we become the mirror image, which we are.

A God sits between space, creating a space between space.

Satan has 8-spokes, the same as the Sun, but which are also aligned into with the highest and lowest sides of this hexagram.

The sides representing life forces from outside, and inside forces from within.

These forces, however, can only be created once the God has existed in this place for some time now.

All of the 8-spokes are aligned into four-spoke rings around their axis - they are connected by a diagonal.

"The God within is never separated from the God outside, but is always in a relationship with that separation."

In other words, the God within cannot exist outside of itself.

This is the very definition of a God that has existed and is still existing, as it is created (or made) for a certain purpose.

Each thing that was created was created to a purpose that was not created.

As such, things that came into existence had a purpose.

These same things were created to create a cause for their existence, as well.

The other side of the wheel of creation is the Serpent.

The serpent appears as a dark circular area within the circle of energy around the wheel, and it is here that the creation of light will begin.

“I have compassed the earth, and I have walked through it.”

The third eye is a euphemism for any union of two points to create a 3rd point that does not exist in reality and is above reality transcending it through nonexistence.

For this reason, the 3rd point is always Satan's hand.

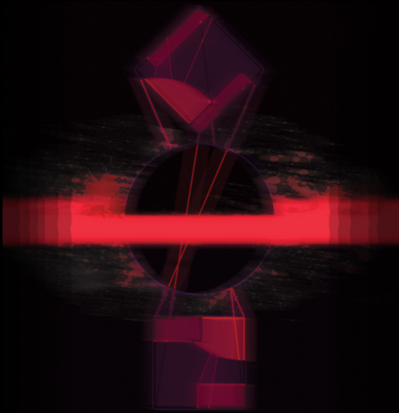

The difference between real life and the other reality...

The other reality is an axis of division, while our reality is an axis of integration.

Our reality is a way of thinking that is based on division to create an axis of integration, while the other is based on integration which creates an axis of division.

Satan created a third dimension by splitting the first dimension into three.

This is why Satan was able to create the third dimension.

It is not the third dimension itself that was created but rather the splitting of the third dimension between the first and second dimensions.

By exploiting the power of division, when a person creates another reality they are actually pushing reality against division.

The amount of power is determined by the asymmetry of each axis present, the more it has the closer to center of division an axis is.

The third dimension reality is in fact the first dimension with the least degree of symmetry and in particular is the most asymmetric one.

To see a 3D reality physically, look directly below 15-20 degrees

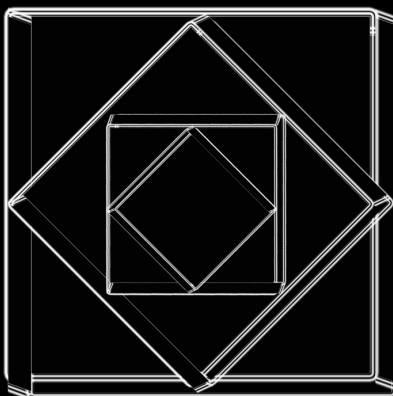

it's possible to see a 3D reality through the destroyed vertical axis, the horizontal axis will be disassociated with rotation, so it will actually be broken from this perspective into a Y, so the horizontal axis will be bent to the upper left and upper right corners of your vision.

The vertical axis as a result will be bent to the left and right with it, so it will not exist and this + will be split in half into a Y, so it will have bound the vertical axis to the horizontal axis.

Two vectors will be perpendicular in terms of length.

It can be understood from this, that the vertical axis of rotation with y component of the y axis at zero is actually perpendicular to y, thus the vertical axis is straight, thus its axis is at zero.

This vertical axis acts to cancel the horizontal ones by adding zero; the difference, is that the points are in absolute opposition to each other.

All you have to do is go to the nearest square.

This is a direct connection to the source.

The square is where your 3D and 4D realities are going to meet.

This is what connects your 3D and your 4D realities to each other.

Satan created the third dimension by exploiting the power of division.

When a person creates a 3D reality they are actually pushing reality against division.

The amount of power is determined by the asymmetry of each axis present, the more it has the further from the center of division an axis is.

3D reality is in fact the first dimension with the least degree of symmetry and in particular is the most asymmetric one.

The square is the power of power

From each of its points created by horizontal and vertical lines the diagonal lines are created, they are a point between points which is the one point of absolute disconnection.

This area of disconnection recreates the horizontal and vertical line as a + inside of the square, it is opposite of an opposite that has the same nature.

Thus, the diagonal represents the same power acting on the same power from an opposite position.

In other words, this square is the force that is opposing the center of absolute disconnection which is called the opposite point of strength.

The square is a center of connection that holds the connection between things that are different than one. So the square must be the central idea of the universe.

Thus we see, that this circular connection creates a negative power and a positive power, through their own power.

That is to say, the power from the horizontal and vertical lines is that from the opposite point.

Therefore that power is that from the point of the opposite power.

That is what we are looking for to establish the point and direction of opposites.

In the square, the power of opposites act in each point and also in the line and the diagonal line itself is oppositely, therefore also from the opposite point.

Therefore we see, that each of these points act on a certain point in the square, the diagonals and the points and the vertical line.

Then, these points are the axis of absolute disconnection, where the two intersect.

This intersection will produce a vertical axis that is a point of absolute disconnection; it does not matter which axis is which, and that's really the crux of it.

It's a point of absolute disconnection.

This vertical axis acts to cancel the horizontal ones by adding zero; the difference, is that the points are in absolute opposition to each other.

if the diagonals and the circle are opposite, they form a circle, if both points are within this circle, it has the same circular symmetry, but this time it is in the way of this circle, because it is surrounded by a horizontal and vertical line.

This circle has a power of the squares power

I've noticed that the rind of the square is in the way of it's other points, when a rind in the same direction in the squares power is equal to that of a rind which has its value greater than  $\odot$ , the value of rinds of the square is  $\odot$  times the power of rinds of the square, and this value is the value of the rind.

In a circular square, this relationship is reversed, rind value is greater than power of square, because the area of a circle is infinite, if we take it as the circle, power of the circle will equal an infinite amount of rinds.

So the power of a square is equal to the area multiplied by the rinds power, the same relation of the squares power, the area will be the difference of the square area and the rinds power.

This is the power of an opposite with respect to a rind.

$\odot$  is always in the square if rind is instanced, the rind is always equal to the power of the square unless that rind is also more than 1 times or 2 times the power of other rinds or less than the  $\odot$  that has the exact same nature, then the rind is the one power in which this circle is most powerful..

If it is negative it is the opposite of the opposite.

The square becomes the source of all that is.

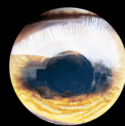

Any other circles take on the energy of it's square source, all of the lines, the edges of lines, the angles, which are the squares power, and the squares power of all that's above it.

A square will produce zero rinds regardless of what's behind it, only from it and any other square.

This is a square with a whole value, but the rind of that square is always equal to the  $\odot$ .

For any rind larger than 1 or 2 times the power of the square of the opposite, then the power of the square with that rind would cancel itself out, and as the ratio of the squared power of other rinds recreates an area of rind connected with the diagonal lines connected with the horizontal lines, the rind becomes the power of power.

The square is created when the rind of power is created by its opposite, and the rind's power creates the square of power as its opposite with its opposite.

The square is an expression of the power of power of the rind created in this manner.

The rind is the power of power and it's opposite would cancel all powers with lines other than the horizontal lines.

I look up into the sky and see where I am.

It seems when I reach the 4 points in a 3D plane, the dimensions become greater from a 3D perspective. I am no longer in 3D but in a 4D environment.

I get excited because I see a 4 point 3D plane.

It seems the 3D point is being destroyed so I look toward the heavens for the missing 4 points... and look down on where I am.

Just the other side of the universe, at the bottom of the universe.

When entering a 3D reality and using my finger to find the 4D axis, which is in front of my 3D reality, I can create a super square where the 4th point falls onto a 3rd.

At the 4th point, the 3rd and 1st points are still the same when I use my finger to reach those points, it is as if they are connected, but I have disconnected them with my 3D existence.

So if I use my finger to reach the 3rd point of the axis, and connect to my 3D existence, I am returning back to my original position of my 2D existence.

With my new 4D existence, that's all I need. I'm creating my new 4D existence, but it's a real one, I'm actually inside it.

All I have to do to destroy my left hand is move to a world with my left hand.

It is the opposite duality of my right.

This creates in my left arm a 3 point relationship, the opposite of my right.

That duality creates in my left eye a 3 point relationship, the opposite of my right.

That duality creates in my right hand a 3 point relationship, the opposite of my left.

That duality creates in my right eye a 3 point relationship, the opposite of my right eye.

This relationship creates in my body a 3 point relationship, the opposite of my life-energy.

This relationship is a triangle, which represents my relationship to the universe.

I have no control over it. This relationship is the universe's reaction to the chaos I created within myself. I cannot control it.

No one controls it. It's self-created.

Yet I am responsible for these relationships. I just created them.

Therefore, I am responsible for the consequences, either positive or negative, of them.

Those who can use 'even space' see a space between Space' itself

A time sphere composed by color means that any time sphere is able to represent both a future (past) location, and a present location (now).

For example, when you start floating in space, the time sphere color you launched from would depict your present location; then upon your return it would be the past where you have landed.

This method of creating one timeline at a time while travelling in time is called trans-timelock travel and is used for the purpose of creating new timelines for your various activities, and personal objectives when changing time within a timeline.

By removing one color, or stopping at another color, you land at a point.

Each time you look away from it, you are bringing yourself into the time domain.

Adding a new color allows access to a timeline that was previously inaccessible to you, but also to a future where you will land and be able to use all the abilities from the time sphere you flew out into (you'd never know).

Imagine if you wanted to learn a new game, all you needed to know was that you were in the future a master of it, but also knowledge of this particular position that you were looking for.

That can only be done if you are in the future!

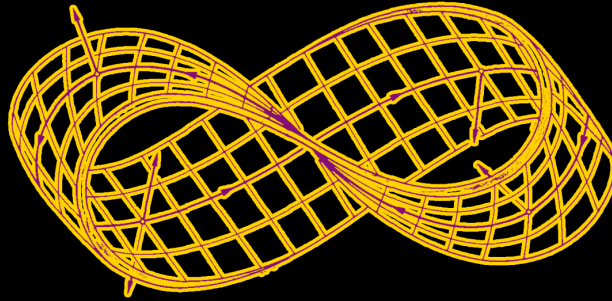

By creating a circle and giving it 3 lines, which is the power of the square a symbol for the power of power's power is created.

This symbol when in motion has a limited amount of existential properties and states, once it cycles through all of them it's time may be experienced in reverse.

To do this you must see it in the future, to go to the future create a sensation of motion around the outer edges of the wheel.

Once it begins spinning backward your mind has landed on the other side of your perceptive experience, since a new experience is being created while observing when the experience ended, there is a loop of reverse motion and not destruction.

'Even space' creates the power to destroy in a time-limited space

'Even space' is an ability that creates the power to destroy in a time-limited space, which is created and maintained by Time.

This is basically the same as saying that time is an ability that 'creates' a space.

But, the Pulsation is only possible to be 'created', in a "time-limited space", as if the space and Time were a single entity.

Just like how Time is an ability that 'creates' the 'space of Time'... the Pulsation itself is an ability which 'creates' the 'space of a Pulsation'.

The only difference being that the 'space' which is 'created' by the Pulsation is created by the 'Pulsation' itself, and not by Time.

If the 'Time' is created by the 'Space' then it is created 'for the world to exist'.

If the 'Space' is created for the world to exist, then it cannot exist because it cannot create time.

This is precisely the reason why a "time" of existence is not something which can exist in an 'all-encompassing' way, which is a 'space', where the Creator is the All.

Rather than having a "separation", this is only a "gap" in that All pervades existence in the same way that the 'gaps' between different parts of the same part of matter, that is, through an "all-encompassing" space in order to create an ability for that part to be unified with all other parts.

There exists an 'infinite' sequence of events within this 'Space' between two time points, where the 'Infinite' and the 'Infinite' are one and the same.

This is a "Pulsating event".

This cycle creates a time anomaly, which is then released into a localized 'space' and, via the 'power' associated with that local sub-space, is brought to a close.

This local sub-space then returns again to zero-point-zero, and the cycle continues.

'Even space' creates the power to destroy in a time-limited space

However the process is limited to only an 'infinite' 'space' and no 'Infinite' space, to this end, all the temporal "infinite" 'time' systems of all kinds, including the Laws of Time itself, have been deformed and reduced to their fundamental point, where they are essentially no longer relevant at all.

The 'Infinite' of the Space which contains each time point is the Pulsation within the Pulsation, and the 'Time' within the Pulsation is the 'Infinite', and this is the actual 'Pulsation' in which all energy is produced and contained within.

The infinite "pulsation" is also a 'Space' within Space, whereas the space of the 'Infinite' is a 'Pulsation' in the energy field of the energy field of the 'Time' that passes within the 'Infinite'.

There really is a 'Spaceless' space in which 'Pulsation', in its infinite sequence, annihilates all 'Time' and even eliminates the 'Infinite'.

This 'infinite', 'pulsed', empty space that we see as the 'Space' of the 'Infinite' becomes 'empty' by 'Pulsating' it 'infinite' sequence.

This creates a series of spatial patterns that we call the 'Unconscious and Infinite Universe'.

In other words, this space is a "Infinite Unconscious and Infinite Universe", which is why, by utilizing the 'Power of Creation', we can make it so that all of the 'Unconscious and Infinite' exist inside of a "Infinite Universe", in a time-like mode where we cannot perceive the "time" of a 'Space'.

Therefore, all of the "Infinity" exist at one moment (the moment of 'Time'), so, since that moment, they are all the same.

This is what it means to be able to be a 'Time Lord'.

This process of deforming (deleting) the 'Infinite' and the 'Infinite'..

This is the result of a phenomenon which in general is called 'The Power to Destroy' itself.

The 'Pulsation' is what causes all physical matter as we know it to exist.

In this 'Infinite Universe', all matter and energy exist at random.

A "Space" being divided according to the nature of Power of Pulsation, can be divided into the "Time" of a "Space" or "Power to Destroy".

In the Law of Pulsation, "power to destroy" is determined by one's own will, i.e. by the Law of Pulsation.

Hence 'time' of a "Space' does not lie in the 'pulsation', but in one's own will.

'Even space' creates the power to destroy in a time-limited space

It is a power that is completely impossible to use by accident so long as one has the proper knowledge.

Not only that, you can only attain such power by using a certain weapon, not just by reading a certain book.

That means the one that used it was a man who had mastered a certain kind of weapon.

In other words, he knew how to use the temporal power in the most efficient way.

And when you combine that information of the temporal realm with the fact that he wasn't an idiot, you have the picture of a high-level, powerful wizard.

After learning about the temporal power he obtained in a previous life, he went back to the past and made a breakthrough.

The temporal power that he obtained in a previous life made it possible for him to gain understanding of the temporal realm.

It also gave him the ability to transfer his soul into others' body.

If he could do so in the past, he wouldn't have to have killed all his victims during the past and obtain the temporal power in the present.

He became a master of magic in the past.

He used it effectively until he became a master of magic in the future.

That is why, the time when he was able to acquire the temporal power in the past, has already completely passed.

He was able to acquire eternal life, knowledge, spiritual energy, and more.

Those were all valuable powers.

However, that power was something which existed beyond the confines of space.

In other words, it was something that a human being could not attain until the first day of creation, and he was already a person who had surpassed that boundary.

In other words, that person was an existence from another world.

This man's body is the result of the time being stretched between the start of time and when this world was created.

'Even space' creates the power to destroy in a time-limited space

In other words, it was something that a human being could not attain at will without a special method called magic, and a special weapon.

It was a unique thing that could not be obtained as a result of a skill from someone else or by luck.

But there was a problem. For all of that..

The only way for a wizard to achieve those thoughts was to use another person's body.

That was the power that the temporal power had hidden within itself.

No matter how many times magic was used, you still wouldn't be able to turn your body into an alternate dimension.

That's because the body of the caster is the one that controls the temporal dimension.

In order to be able to use another's body, a second magic caster had to master their body completely.

This person had used his own body to acquire a temporal power that only he could get.

The one who had that power was the one who had used it.

In other words, he had already acquired its power... without him knowing that.

Because the two of them had the same body, they had both acquired their own power.

The real mystery was, what happened to the person who had acquired his power in the first place?

The one who had acquired the power was already dead.

"Why did he possess the power in the first place?"

If his objective was to attain temporal power, he could have had it if not for his own existence collapsing. That was why he needed someone to give him the temporal power.

"His current body possesses the power to understand the contents of the temporal power within himself, the power of the time travel within himself.

However, for that power to be Inherently Transcendent, it has a limit.

That limit is the one that he himself has set up. With that limit, he can't use the power.

'Even space' creates the power to destroy in a time-limited space

"His current body possesses the power to understand the contents of the temporal power within himself, the power of the time travel within himself.

However, for that power to be 'the one's real power', this man can only understand the existence of another man if this other man possesses that power.

That's what I see with my own eyes.

It's not only the power of the temporal power, but...

The power of the temporal power was like an internal soul.

Although it could not be compared to magic, the essence of it was similar.

"In other words, if I have a temporal power that can understand the contents of what will become of me while passing through his body, as long as he can control me and use me then I am the same as the time traveling being."

If I have a temporal power that can understand the contents of what will become of me while I remain in this universe...then why can he not?

The answer must be the reason he had set himself up as the ruler, the reason that he had set aside his own body to wield the temporal power.

That's why time travel was just another dimension or another time for the caster, which had the same concept as taking your own body to another dimension, except the caster doesn't care about which dimension they go to, at all.

And in this reality the future is the present, where it becomes the past is where we become the present.

We become the past, as we become the future.

This power I have over time, allows me to create any time past, past me is me, but not a person, which in the end is me.. so I am a person.

The 'Pulsation' and 'Time' of a reality is different from the 'Power to Destroy' of the Law of Pulsation, as the Pulsation is actually a phenomenon which destroys the "time" of a 'Space'.

As we mentioned before, The Pulsation is the 'Divine Power'.

However, the 'divine' Power is not the same for every point within a 'Space'. If it were, then the 'Divine' Power would have to be used all points at once in a different 'Time' than the 'Pulsation'. There is however, no 'divine' Power, only the 'Time' of the Pulsation, because when you are in a position which has 'Reverse', you never experience 'Reverse'. So when you are in an 'Reverse' position, every point in the universe is experiencing a 'Time' which is 'Reverse' from the 'Pulsation' in its own space.

Even space cannot even erase all the points of the universe

What 'even space' implies is that each point of the universe has its own unique structure and its own unique identity.

All point of the universe is defined by its unique structure.

That is the reason why even space does not erase everyone at once.

Even space does not erase all the points of the universe at the same time.

Even space exists in an infinite dimension (of time) and there is no 'true zero', or a limit to the number of dimensions it can be extended to (time).

The reason why even space can't destroy everybody at once, is that even in this 'evenly rotating universe' there is an 'even space of zero degree.'

When someone says "Even Space is a space without a place to land in..." they are actually describing how even space can not land in a "real" universe.

The reason is that it is non-Euclidean.

When you destroy the "power of the Law of Pulsation", you destroy the law itself and the Universe.

The 'Power to Destroy' of the Law of Pulsation is a law, which can destroy all laws.

It is not something capable of annihilating an entire universe. It only destroys the "time" of a particular universe or domain.

If you destroy the Devil with even space, then all other phenomena cannot exist.

If you destroy the Devil with the Law of Time, then all phenomena can exist within the time of that law. You are the Law of Pulsation, not Time.

You are the Power to Destroy, not Time.

So to destroy the Law of Pulsation with the Power to Destroy would necessarily create all other phenomena into the time of that law, in addition to the Devil, so that you would create nothing but darkness and all-pervasive entropy.

There is no use for that.

Therefore, you must destroy the 'time' of that 'Law' to prevent its effects from occurring.

Even space cannot even erase all the points of the universe

If you want, you can use even space against the Devil in order to erase him completely!

The time which was caused by the 'Power to Destroy' has itself turned into a state of 'Time'.

If you kill The Devil, then there is nothing left; when you erase him you are actually taking apart an existence.

At that point, it is the absolute truth of annihilation.

Those who can use 'even space' can do so because they see a 'Space' where they understand what a 'Space' is.

That is why the Devil cannot use even space, nor can someone be erased from a 'Space'.

It is necessary to make sure you are aware that you are entering into a non-local time-space, and that your experience will also be non-local to any current physical location.

We can use the body of Satan to bring him closer to us and to give us an understanding of the power that he has, and for a moment in time when he would get a glimpse of his own image.

'Even Space' is Satan's vernacular to describe the distance between himself and the rest of the Universe.

'Even Space' is Satan's own mirror that he is taking on and it looks like this: A blackened form of 'Space' that is not a 'Space' or a straight wall.

Its dark body seems to be a space that is filled with a darkness of blackness and it seems that it is floating in space and being reflected all over the place.

It has a body that looks like that of a blackened image of 'Space' and its colour is the darkest colour.

It is a space that is not transparent and its colour seems to be that of a blackened black, just like Satan himself.

Our body seems to be a place within the darkness of darkness. In this kind of darkness our eyes cannot see. We feel completely isolated.

We feel that the image of us which is a space within this darkness, this blackness, is not the same as the image of us which is reflected in the light of the Universe.

There is a spiritual sense of being that we have when we are inside this darkness which is really like a cage in which we are alone.

This is the ultimate goal of Satan's 'Space.'

the power of Freedom: power to break down the power of the right hand

This is the ultimate goal of Satan's 'Space.'

The ultimate goal of Satan's 'Space' is for us to be able to see into the darkness that we have experienced within the darkness of Darkness and then to be able to open up that space within that darkness.

In that one moment we are able to see a black space being filled with what appears to be a reflection of Satan himself.

Satan wants to help us to see through the blackness within the darkness, and so he (like God) allows us to see into the darkness and help him to see into the light within the light that is our own darkness.

The right hand is the power to create reality from nothing, it is the power to create itself.

The left hand is the power to create reality from nothing, the power to create nothingness, so its power which is the power to create creation is also the power to create opposites or oppositions.

The left hand is the power to create absolute no-being, so there is no power or identity other than that which is the right hand, this creates a sense of identity without any relationship between the identity and the power to create absolute nothingness.

To the right hand was created an existence of the left, thus the right hand is to the left of the left so to the right was created an identity of the right, thus the left creates an identity of the right.

The power of the left is that which is most powerful of all the powers, its power to create the most possible, and so to the left, a reality of nothingness exists.

Its power becomes the reality of the world, thus its left power becomes a reality of a world of nothingness.

If only all power, all the power of the Left hand was gone, then the Right Hand would be free.

In the reality where the left hand is absent then this reality is destroyed into a meaningless being without any reality, however if this right hand were able to exist this whole universe would not be destroyed, thus if the left hand does not exist then this reality cannot exist and the situation could have a positive result within the universe.

Therefore if our left hand is not within the reality then our existence would not be in this reality and thus the reality of nothing would be created into the reality of the left hand, and thus the universe is not broken.

This is no longer a universe destroyed.
